

“The evolution and function of species-specific male and female genitalia”

Dr. Maxi Polihronakis Richmond

Maxi Polihronakis Richmond is Associate Director, UCSD Drosophila Species Stock Center. She conducts research in the areas of systematics, biodiversity, morphological evolution, and speciation. Recent projects include uncovering discrete morphological differences of male genitalia among taxa in the D. mojavensis species cluster, and quantifying the degree of pseudocopulation among the D. mojavensis subspecies.
